The Fund is being raised to provide proper equipment for a baseball and athletic field for the 25,000 boys at Camp Devens. The government donates the land. But there is no appropriation available to erect spectators' stands for games.

What's the use of a baseball game you can't see. There are hundreds of teams organized among the boys in camp already. But they must have grandstands if they are to see their own games. They had a big athletic meet at Camp Devens last Fall. Twenty thousand soldiers were on hand. But only two or three thousand, in front row positions, could see anything. You don't wish the boys to enjoy (?) their baseball that way, do you?

Hence the Fund. Hence the quick response of early contributors.

ROXBURY GIRL SECRET BRIDE OF BACK BAY CLUBMAN

PHOTOGRAPH BY WHITE, BOSTON

Mrs. George L. Silsbee, whose marriage to naval ensign over four months ago has just been made public. Silsbee is a yachtsman and Aretic explorer and member of the Somerset, Tennis and Racquet and other exclusive clubs of Boston. Opposition on the part of the bridegroom's parents is given as the cause of secrecy.

Pretty Louise G. Jewett of No. 51 Lorraine street, West Roxbury, is the war bride of Ensign George S. Silsbee of No. 312 Beacon street, wealthy clubman, Arctic explorer, yachtsman and naval officer.

Announcement of the marriage, which had been kept secret for nearly four months, came as a surprise to exclusive social circles of Boston. The marriage had been kept secret, it was said, because of the opposition of Mr. Silsbee's family for social reasons.

The announcement was one of the principal topics of conversation at the Somerset, the Country, Tennis and Racquet and Harvard Clubs, of which Mr. Silsbee is a member.

The friends of the young bride expressed surprise that the marriage had been kept secret so long.

Young Mrs. Silsbee, at her apartments, No. 137 Peterboro street, was radiantly happy, and her only wish was that "the war would soon be over."

Ensign Silsbee suddenly appeared at his mother's home, introduced his young bride and as suddenly disappeared. It was his second visit to Boston since last August. No member of the Silsbee family had previously been acquainted with young Mrs. Silsbee, although she had been living for several months within a short distance of her husband's old home and that of his sister, Mrs. John Heard, Jr., at No. 489 Marlboro street.

MARRIED IN NEW YORK.

Strenuous efforts were made to keep the facts of the marriage secret. Inquirers at the Silsbee home were variously informed that Mrs. Silsbee, senior, "had gone for a drive, that she was in New York," while a voice, purporting to be that of Mrs. Silsbee, answered over the telephone, "I have nothing to say."

Henry N. Jewett, young Mrs. Silsbee's father, was equally non-committal. Beyond admitting that the marriage took place, he had nothing to say.

Last December Miss Jewett was in

KENTUCKY MOUNTAIN TOWN RAZED BY TORNADO

CZERNIN'S PLAN TO INTIMIDATE ITALY

London, April 4.—Italian opinion, according to despatches received here from Rome today, leans to the belief that the recent speech of Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister was intended to intimidate Italy into considering peace just as the German feelers lost the same purpose toward the Entente Allies, separately or conjointly, before the opening of the Western drive.

Accept peace, or take the consequences runs on the Austrian attitude as expressed by Count Czernin, is the thought of leading Italian authorities. An Austrian offensive against Italy is therefore considered imminent, since Italy is as far from listening to peace overtures as any other nation of the entente.

British opinion is not greatly different from that held in Italy, according to the expressions in today's newspapers in comment upon the Czernin speech. It is said that Czernin has been engaged in a clumsy attempt to bring the United States to the point of driving purpose to bear upon the other members of the entente. It is considered that Czernin will have had only his trouble for his pains.

RAILROAD FINED $8,420 IN WRECK FATAL TO 49

Lexington, Ky., April 4.—As an outgrowth of the disastrous wreck at Shepherdsville, Ky., on December 20 last, when a fast train crashed into a local filled with Christmas shoppers, mostly women and children, killing and injuring 49, a jury in the County Circuit Court today found the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company guilty of maintaining a common nuisance and imposed a fine of $8,420. Prosecution against officials of the railroad company who were under indictment was dismissed.

PEACE TALK TAKEN AS BLUFF

President Will Sound Warning Saturday in Speech at Baltimore

By H. H. STANSBURY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 4.—President Wilson is expected to answer on Saturday at Baltimore the half apology and half threat with which Foreign Minister Count Czernin of Austria has explained the sudden ending of his recent peace protestations.

It will be a warning that any peace overtures from the Central empires at this time should be regarded as unworthy of consideration, unless it is decided to entirely ignore the incident.

While Czernin is now looked upon as a dangerous tool of the Kaiser, and as a hypocrite, the policy of the Administration concerning a negotiated peace has not changed one whit.

It was summarized by President Wilson within the last ten days as follows:

"It is always our duty to find out what the expression of a desire for peace from our opponents really means, but unless it means a complete and convincing program of justice upon which a lasting peace can really rest, it means nothing."

STATEMENT ABSURD.

In the face of such a point-blank statement that the thread of peace spun between Washington and Vienna in January was severed by the enemies of the Central Empires, it is declared to be absurd.

The speech is believed in fact represented a desperate effort to

STEEL INDUSTRIALS AND RAILS FEATURES

New York, April 4.—Developments overnight were regarded with satisfaction in Wall street at the opening of the stock market and furnished incentives for bullish operations. The increased attention attracted to the conditions in the steel trade, with expected heavy allotments for April shipment, made the steel industrials prominent in trading.

The action of the Wabash directors in declaring a dividend yesterday on the A preferred stock improved the position of the railway list generally. Many of those stocks made fractional gains, with special interest attached to Reading, which advanced ⅝ to 85¾. There was continued covering of studebaker, which rose ⅝ to 41¾.

American Can was influenced by some extent by widely circulated reports of a coming dividend.

The copper stocks were in good demand.

BRAZILIAN WARSHIPS TO JOIN ALLIED FLEET

London, March 28 (by mail).—The naval forces of the allies in European waters will shortly be reinforced by a number of Brazilian warships. The admiralty has allowed this information to be made public, but no intimation is given as to the size of the Brazilian squadron nor the work it will do. It is supposed, however, that the Brazilian men of war will be used for anti-submarine duty and for guarding merchant ships.

LOAN DRIVE TO CLOSE MAY 4

McAdoo, Rested, Ready to Open Four Weeks' Campaign Saturday in Philadelphia

Washington, April 4.—The third Liberty Loan campaign, with closing day fixed a drive of four weeks beginning Saturday, it was announced at the Treasury Department today. Instructions have been issued to banks to have their books close five days after the close of the campaign.

Initial deposits on bonds of the third loan will be 2 per cent instead of 2 per cent, as formerly, and subsequent payments will be as follows: 20 per cent on May 23; 25 per cent on July 15 and 10 per cent on Aug. 15. The instalments were arranged so that none will fall due in June, because of the great strain on the finances of the nation, due to the income and excess profits taxes falling due on June 15. The date of the bonds and maturity will be announced in the near future.

Although the instalment system has been arranged, treasury officials made it clear that they expected a large percentage of subscribers would pay for the bonds outright. It was estimated that the early payments would be sufficient to retire $500,000,000 of certificate indebtedness due April 22 and May 8.

Secretary McAdoo returned this afternoon from White Sulphur Springs, where he spent several days for the benefit of his health. He appeared to be in fine condition and on Saturday will speak in Philadelphia. He will be heard in Richmond Monday, after which he will tour practically the entire country up to the closing of the campaign.

Milwaukee, April 4.—Victor L. Berger, Socialist and antiwar candidate for United States senator, had increased a factor in Wisconsin primary election held on Tuesday to 103,431 votes, returns received today show. Senator Paul O. Husting, his opponent, has increased his total vote to approximately 3,000.

Returns from all but one of the 71 still missing precincts give Berger 1,014 votes and Husting 1,011. Joseph E. Davies, Democrat, is 975.

13 Million a Day United States' War Expenses

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—War expenses have averaged about $13,000,000 a day since the first of July, the Treasury Department announces. A detailed statement shows expenditures of $4,232,261,000 between July 1, 1917, and March 16, 1918. Approximately $5,500,000,000 went for war purposes, making a monthly average of $400,000,000, and a daily average slightly over thirteen million.

These figures do not include the five billion odd dollars loaned to the co-belligerents, nor $22,000,000 invested in Farm loan bonds. Those items are carried as investments rather than as expenses.

Total disbursements between July 1 and March 16 were $11,274,570,000.

WATCHMAN SHOT TO DEATH NEAR CREEL OFFICE

Washington Tragedy First Laid to Spies; Later Police Suspect Negro Porter

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—James King, night watchman at the offices of the Creel Committee on Public Information, was shot to death shortly before 4 o'clock this morning on the roof of a railway of the building occupied by the committee at No. 10 Jackson place. The scene of the murder is almost directly across the street from the White House and the State, War and Navy Building.

Because of the fact that stored in the safes of the Creel bureau is a mass of information which would be valuable to the enemy, the initial theory of the police and special agents called on the case was that the killing was the work of a German spy. Later developments showed that the watchman had made a number of enemies among the colored help in the building, causing the police to change their mind, and they inclined to the belief that the killing was the result of a quarrel.

All theories were investigated and all evidence was run down before the police superintendent of police would make a statement concerning the tragedy. But a number of employes of the bureau were detained by the police for questioning.

Toward noon the police turned their custody a negro, whose identity was not revealed, but who had baffled detectives that another negro confessed to him he had killed King. The confessed negro is still missing and the search for the missing negro employe of the committee continued.

MUST LIMIT HARD COAL TO DOMESTIC PURPOSES

Washington, April 4.—Warning that communities that use their fuel supply for manufacturing purposes for the purpose of keeping their industries going may find themselves without coal for ordinary heating purposes next Winter was sounded today by the fuel administration. Such a practice, the Fuel Administration holds, is absolutely unfair to the domestic consumers, and notice was sent to fuel administrators that coal dealers should be instructed not to supply domestic sizes of anthracite coal for industrial purposes where it is to replace bituminous.

CALL MACKENSEN TO WEST FRONT

Paris, April 4.—The possibility of the immediate resumption of the German drive for the attempted capture of Amiens was foreseen today in the latest developments along the battle front held by the French forces in Picardy. The War Office statement issued this afternoon stated that the artillery fire north of Montdidier, at the extreme western edge of the German position, had assumed great intensity. Additional color was given the belief that the Germans were about to reopen the great battle when the report was published here that Field Marshal von Mackensen had left for the western front, presumably to direct operations in conjunction with Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Chief Quartermaster General von Ludendorff.

Paris, April 4.—The German forces opposed to the United States troops, both on the Toul sector and on another sector whose location it is not permitted at present to name, have suddenly begun active artillery bombardments of great intensity. In the unnamed portion of the front the heaviest gas attack thus far experienced here was directed against the Americans.

This attack was opened on Tuesday evening and was continued throughout the night. Thousands of gas shells were projected against the American defences. A heavy artillery bombardment with high explosive shells was maintained at the same time.

In the American sector northwest of Toul, in French Lorraine, another heavy bombardment was aimed at the defences of the United States troops. Mine throwers were also employed in this attack, but no gas shells were employed. The bombardment, heavy as it was, did relatively little damage to the American works.

By International News Service.

London, April 4.—There has been no break in the lull on the British section of the great Picardy battle line. The War Office in its announcement today reported only artillery activity at some points on the West Flanders front and elsewhere. The big guns were active in the Menin and Passchendaele sectors, but there was no infantry activity of any importance.

"There was some shelling at different points on the Menin road and in the Passchendaele district," said the official statement.

"There was also artillery activity elsewhere. In the neighborhood of Heluterne British troops overpowered a German post, capturing a machine gun. Some prisoners were captured elsewhere.

Hebuterne lies north of Albert.

There is no change in the general situation and it is daily becoming more evident that the German drive has been definitely checked.

Despite the stormy weather, Allied airmen continue extremely active all along the ninety-mile front. Many German airplanes are being shot down daily and observations are being carried out in all sectors back of the German front.

The airmen report German troop movements, which indicates that another effort against the defenses of Amiens is in prospect, but the Allied commanders are supremely confident that any onslaught will be futile.

"THEY SHALL NOT PASS."

The slogan of the French soldiers at Verdun, "They shall not pass" may well be applied to the present spirit of the Allied troops holding the battle line. There is a grim determination to hold the Germans in their present positions and later to hurl their backs across the ground they gained at so great a sacrifice.

Advices from Amsterdam say the Kaiser is worried over the situation and that the inability of the German armies to gain any more ground, together with the terrible losses they have suffered, is having a grave result on the morale of the German soldiers.

A considerable German force has been massed along the southern edge of the enemy salient and the next big German effort evidently will be made against the Paris-Amiens-Calais railroad.

The Germans are gradually getting their big guns into place along the line of the Picardy battle, but their progress is not nearly so rapid as had been expected, and they are therefore having to rely to a remarkable extent on machine gun fire, according to reports from British headquarters today.

NEW ZEALANDERS HEROIC.

New Zealanders, who went over the top and captured 1,000 yards of German front trenches after they had been yielding doggedly for days, got 300 prisoners and more than a hundred machine guns, an unusual concentration of such guns, considering the length of the position taken.

Stories coming in from press headquarters reveal the falsity of the German claims of heavy capture of prisoners. The assault of Arras and Vimy Ridge, touted by the German wireless as a victory although the Germans failed to take the famous ridge, is generally recognized at headquarters as one of the bloodiest and most disastrous defeats ever inflicted on the enemy by British troops.

The punishment which the Teuton masses have sustained is revealed in a startling way by the news that one battalion, near Vanix Vraicourt, used over a quarter of a million rounds of small ammunition in a single day. The targets all day long were solid masses of advancing men.

As many as six separate attacks in a single day were launched by the Germans, who are under the supreme direction of one man.

It is believed here that inasmuch as General Foch has not instituted a sustained counter offensive along the Picardy front, he will not do so now. Army officers pointed out today that such a counter offensive, to be most effective, must in its very nature be delivered while the opposing forces were completely exhausted by the violence of their own efforts before they have had opportunity to dig in.

As this was not done, it is assumed here that General Foch believed that the extent should strike elsewhere, where the chances of gaining ground that would be of strategic value would be better than in driving the Germans back across the shell ploughed hills of Picardy.

While watching the western front army officers quite also are closely interested in the developments in Italy. It is believed here that the Austrians will initiate a new offensive directed against Venice within the next few days. Already reports show the teutons have massed some fifty divisions or reserves at strategic points and have brought up innumerable batteries of guns with which to support any operations attempted.

Expect Huns to Renew Big Offensive Soon

By International News Service.

Paris, April 4.—Germany is expected to renew her offensive at any moment. Military critics today saw in the heavy artillery firing along the Picardy front the Kaiser's preliminary move to another effort to smash forward to Amiens. British and French headquarters are supremely confident. The lull of the past few days has permitted the allies to bring their reserves up and place them where they desired without interference. The enemy will find his attempts to smash forward strongly opposed at every point, critics declared today, and belief was expressed that at no place would the Germans make any material gain.

General Foch's confident statement to Rene Renoult, president of the army committee, which compelled Clemenceau to the front, cheered the country today.

"We can henceforth regard the future with tranquility," Renoult quoted the French generalissimo as saying.

He also said that General Foch went stronger and pictured the situation as better than it had been at any time since the time the Germans started their big drive.

It is agreed on every side that the force rolled up against British lines and were mowed down by methodical and deadly fire. Isolated from the trenches by rifles, while engineers and all other valuable branches were armed and stood shoulder to shoulder with the regulars.

Gen. Foch Preparing to Strike at the Foe

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—While the Anglo-French forces are holding the Germans in Picardy, General Foch is reported, in dispatches received here today, to be preparing to strike probably at another point of the line.

All along the Western front the big guns of the contending forces are reported in use. This bombardment presages another effort to break through by the Germans, it is believed by army officers here, but there is no apprehension as to the result. Rather, the interest here is in what the Allied forces will do now the next few days. Already reports show the teutons have massed some fifty divisions or reserves at strategic points and have brought up innumerable batteries of guns with which to support any operations attempted.

PRESIDENT MAY REPLY TO CZERNIN

Administration Feels That Any Peace Move by Teutons Is Not Sincere

satisfy a new demand from the Austrian people for a cessation of hostilities. Officials assert no other explanation for discussing world issues before the Vienna Municipal Council is plausible.

A vast amount of information has accumulated in Washington showing the great dissatisfaction among the Austro-Hungarian peoples with the terms of the peace Russia was forced to accept. Revolution which threatened to develop from broad plots throughout the dual empire was only prevented by exaggerated promises of new food supplies from the Ukraine.

PUT ON DEFENSIVE.

These promises have not been possible of fulfillment. The resulting situation is believed to have forced the foreign minister to make the best defence he could invent.

The statement that Premier Clemenceau of France addressed Count Czernin with an inquiry whether and upon what basis Austria was ready to negotiate, and was told that the French cession for Alsace-Lorraine was the only obstacle to peace with that country, is not credited here.

At the State Department and White House it was said that knowledge of any exchanges between Count Czernin and the French Premier had never been communicated to this government. French diplomatic authorities resented any suggestion that the Austrian officials' assertion might have been other than a subterfuge to shift responsibility for his own shortcomings.

The State Department has not received the full text of the Czernin statement, but officials say the excerpts which had become available were "highly interesting."

From the White House an order was sent to the committee on public information to procure the full speech with as little delay as possible. This gave color to the unofficial information that Count Czernin's statements would be given careful consideration before the speech the President plans to deliver in Baltimore is completed.

Colonel E. M. House is still a guest at the executive mansion. It is understood to be in entire accord with the views which have been attributed to the President.

Count Czernin's failure to explain why he never answered the statement by President Wilson, delivered before Congress on February 3, is regarded at the White House as substantial evidence of his insincerity at this time. In an address before the Reichsrath on January 28, the Austrian Premier, after contrasting views with the President, extended the following invitations:

"We agree not only on great principles, in general, according to which the world is to be newly regulated after the end of this war, but our views also approach each other on several concrete principles.

"This situation, which probably arises from the fact that Austria-Hungary and the United States of America are the two great powers among two groups of enemy states whose interests least conflict, suggests the thought that an exchange of ideas between these two powers might be the starting point for conciliatory discussions between all states which have not entered into the peace conversations."

SITUATION AGAIN CHANGES.

In an early statement of policies, President Wilson enumerated fourteen points as essential to peace. After Count Czernin had spoken, these were promptly modified into four general principles, the acceptance of which the Chief Executive said could be regarded as a basis for preliminary negotiations.

In many quarters the concessions made in the announced policy of the United States were so great as to arouse real hope that Austria could be induced to withdraw from the alliance with Germany. Czernin was expected to make a prompt reply, but instead the news dispatches told that he had been called to Berlin. In the conference which followed with the German war lords, the situation became entirely changed again.

A few days later the collapse of the Bolshevik government of Russia made possible the treaty which enabled Czernin to stem for the time being the tide for peace which had set against the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. The last heard of the Foreign Minister he was proposing the treaty with Rumania, which is regarded at the State Department as the most iniquitous document ever developed by the war.

On account of the treatment accorded Rumania, Czernin's assertion that he still stands by the policy of no annexations and free determination for all distinct nationalities is considered unworthy of attention.

RELIEF FOR BAY STATE ROAD OR SHUTDOWN

Receiver Donham, in Warning, Doubts if Line Earns Taxes This Year

Unless the Bay State Street Railway is afforded immediate relief, it may be impossible to keep it in operation, Receiver Wallace D. Donham declared at the hearing before the Public Service Commission today on the company's petition to increase fares.

"Line after line will have to be closed down," he predicted, in case the relief sought is not forthcoming. He declared that he would ask the United States courts at once for the right to issue receivers' certificates, but expressed some doubt that these could be disposed of unless higher fares could be charged.

He made the assertion that in the present year the Bay State, in all probability, will not earn taxes, and may not even earn operating expenses. He expected that operating costs would be covered, but said that at best the company would only "break even on taxes."

FILE NEW PETITION.

While the hearing was in progress, a petition was filed by the Bay State asking that, if relief were furnished by the commission, tickets and ticket books now outstanding may be redeemed by the company at their face value, and that they should not be good for the trips they are issued for after the new fares become effective.

When the hearing opened a number of remonstrants asked continuation. This was opposed by the Bay State ,the commission ruling that the hearing should go on. Commissioner Massey acted as chairman, in the absence of Commissioner Macleod.

Attorney Pillsbury, counsel for the Bay State, in opening his case declared that the company was continually losing money and running behind, and said that he would put on the stand Receiver Donham and other officials who could explain the company's exact status. In answer to a question by George N. Nichols of Lynn he said that the Bay State was seeking relief from the Legislature, and that it was hoped the excise tax might be remitted; possibly not at once, but later on.

Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn asked whether decreasing fares might not increase revenue. Pillsbury thought it would not.

"The Bay State increases have certainly helped the jitney business in Lynn," was the Mayor's reply.

MILLION MORE FOR COAL.

Receiver Donham told how, since he took possession, fire, ice, coal, labor and other troubles had perplexed the Bay State. Coal, he said, would this year cost $1,600,000, as compared with $600,000 in 1916. The men shortly after he became receiver wanted more money, and he thought they should have it. They had agreed to help save money, and were given an increase. Materials had increased 82 to 211 per cent., he said. Interest on debts and some of the principal is overdue, he asserted.

SAYS SHIPPING BOARD IGNORES SMALL CONCERNS

Washington, April 4.—The failure of the Shipping Board to deliver its March allotment of cargo vessels was caused by its refusal to grant contracts to small shipbuilding concerns, Representative Snell of New York charged on the floor of the House.

"What I want to know is why the Shipping Board grants contracts only to big companies," Snell said. "I know a shipbuilding yard ready to put 500 ship carpenters to work tomorrow, but standing idle because it can get no work. To all inquiries the Shipping Board has replied that it has no use for the facilities this concern has to offer."

ARANMORE TAKES PLACE OF THE GOVERNOR COBB

Henry Howard, head of the recruiting service of the United States Shipping Board, announced today that a sixth vessel had been commandeered for the training of seamen, firemen and engineers. This is the steamship Iris, which was taken over at San Francisco and will be used on the Pacific coast. It was also announced that the Canadian government has placed the Aranmore in the Yarmouth to Boston service, to replace the Governor Cobb, commandeered by the Shipping Board as a training ship. This action was taken on request of Nova Scotia shippers.

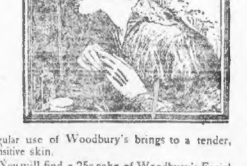
"My skin is so tender"

The new treatment for tender skins



Is your skin so tender that the least exposure to the weather makes it smart and burn—so tender that it is often painful even to wash?

Some people, with delicate, tender skins have been misled by the supersition that washing the face with soap is bad for the complexion. Dr. Pusey, the famous skin specialist, in his book on the care of skin, says: "The layer of dirt and fat that such persons accumulate on the skin is a constant invitation to various disorders."

The following Woodbury treatment is just what a sensitive skin needs to keep it active and resistant.

Dip a soft washcloth in warm water and hold it to the face. Then make a warm water lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and dip your cloth up and down in it until the cloth is "fluffy" with the soft, white lather. Rub this lathered cloth gently over your skin until the pores are thoroughly cleansed. Then rinse the face with clear, cool water and dry carefully.

Make this treatment a nightly habit. See what a difference it will make in your skin in even ten days—a promise of that loveliness which the regular use of Woodbury's brings to a tender, sensitive skin.

You will find a 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment and for general use for his time. Woodbury's is for sale at drug stores and toilet goods counters everywhere throughout the United States and Canada.

Write today for a week's size cake

For 5c we will send you a trial size cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap large enough to last for a week, together with the booklet, "A Skin You Love to Touch," which gives the treatment to use for all of the commoner skin troubles.

For 10c we will send you, in addition, samples of Woodbury's Facial Cream and Facial Powder. Send today to The Andrew Jergens Co., 1931 Spring Grove Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you live in Canada, address The Andrew Jergens Co., Limited, 1931 Sherbrooke St., Perth, Ontario.

Chance for Real Service in Aiding Baseball Fund, Says Lieutenant Deming

By Lieutenant Robert C. Deming, Division Athletic Officer

BASEBALL will undoubtedly be the greatest pleasure that the men in camp can indulge in from now on until we go across. And then we will carry it with us. At present we are confronted with the proposition of preparing some thirty odd fields for the benefit of the two hundred and more ball teams here in camp. These fields vary from bad to excellent, but all will afford opportunity for ball games. In addition there will have to be one excellent field for the camp team chosen from the great mass of soldier players. Such a team, playing many of the big league teams on its schedule, will draw tremendous crowds and the Saturday and Sunday games in camp will be witnessed by many thousands. Without a grandstand of some sort, relatively few will be able to take advantage of the privilege thus offered, and the pleasure derived from these games will be greatly diminished. If a grandstand of some size could be erected it would serve the purpose for football and baseball games, and reviews of troops, and add greatly to the comfort and convenience of all visitors and spectators. Nothing is more needed to foster the spirit of good sportsmanship, and to add incentive to physical and military development. No government funds are available for this purpose, and you have an opportunity to give not only a very real pleasure to the men of this camp, but to do a very real service as well. A popular subscription for this purpose would give patriotic individual a chance to feel that he or she was giving aid and comfort to New England's Own.

FINDS HUSBAND MARRIED AFTER 44 YEARS

First Wife of Prosperous Cohasset Man, Both Aged 76, Tells of Shattered Romance

As a result of Mrs. Gettie Butman of Albany, N. Y., applying some weeks ago to the United States Pension Department for information concerning Joseph Butman, a veteran of the Civil War, a story of a shattered married life, involving a search of forty-four years, was told in the Quincy police court before Judge Albert Avery.

Butman was discovered living at Cohasset where he has the reputation as one of the town's prosperous citizens, a resident for 40 years and the owner of two good-sized farms and the father of five children. They are Mrs. Arthur Sampson of Scituate, Mrs. Arthur Wood of Cohasset, Mrs. Ralph L. Roberts, Jr., Edwin Joseph Butman and Charles Edson Butman.

South Shore residents were somewhat amazed when detectives in the employ of Mrs. Butman located the 76-year-old farmer and asked Chief of Police Thomas Bates of Cohasset to be prepared to serve a warrant for his arrest on a charge of bigamy.

SEPARATED SINCE 1873.

The couple have been separated since 1872 and both are seventy-six years old.

Judge Avery declined to issue the warrant, as Butman's attorney stated that Butman, a resident of Cohasset for forty years, a retired engineer of the New Haven Railroad, married Mrs. Butman in 1864, but sets up the claim that she left him and that he married Mary Alice Bryant of Cohasset, with whom he boarded, in 1880.

Just what Mrs. Butman will do toward taking the matter before the Norfolk Grand Jury at Dedham has not been decided.

Mrs. Butman, who has retained Attorney William I. Schell of the Tremont Building, says she will push the case against her husband to the limit.

"For years I have been working the flesh off my hands," said the old lady, "to bring up my children and educate them, while he has been living in luxury. Now that I am old and poor and no longer able to work, he ought to do something to help me. I am an old, lone woman, and he is a prosperous farmer and well off. I feel for those poor children of his, but I feel also that I have been shamefully abused."

Mrs. Butman applied to the United States Pension Bureau for information of any Joseph Butman who had been a member of Company B, 11th Massachusetts Infantry, during the Civil War. The Pension Bureau replied that there was such a man living in Cohasset. Detectives were put on the case by Mrs. Butman, and they discovered that Butman married Mary Alice Stewart of that town on October 3, 1880, seven years after he and his wife had separated.

TELLS OF SEPARATION.

This separation, according to Mrs. Butman, resulted after much trouble with her husband. She took her three children, then little ones, and on March 15, 1873, left Butman and moved to Albany, N. Y., where she has since lived. The Butmans were married January 15, 1858, and for several years lived happily in South Boston, in a house at the corner of D and Seventh streets.

Some years after the separation Mrs. Butman relented and wrote several letters to her husband, she says, but to none of these did she receive any reply. She learned the trade of dressmaker and for years worked at this occupation, bringing up and educating her three children, George Henry Butman, Ella M. Butman and Mary Elizabeth. The former is now married and has five children and the latter three.

As the years went on and nothing was heard of Butman, his wife finally made up her mind that he was dead and so believed until within a few months when the suggestion that she get in touch with the Pension Bureau was made by one of her grandchildren.

WELLESLEY SOPHOMORES CLAIM BEAUTY HONORS

Miss Margaret Stevenson of Summit, N. J., who is claimant for beauty honors of Wellesley sophomore class.

Are the beauty honors at Wellesley this year going to the sophomore class?

Members of that class do not deny that such may well be the situation.

"Fortunate?" they say. Then they are at no loss for citations, on mention of the living proofs.

Among these fair citations is heard the name of Miss Margaret Stevenson.

She entered Wellesley College from the Kent Place School at Summit, N. J.

She had the distinctive honor in her opening year at college of being the Tree Day Mistress of the Freshman Class. With the Junior Mistress, Miss Dorothy Spellissey, she presided at the Tree Day festivities wearing a flowing robe of light blue.

ALEXANDER, TENNIS PLAYER, IS INJURED

New York, April 4—Frederick R. Alexander, the well-known tennis player, wrenched his ankle while playing with Dr. William Rosenbaum as his partner in a doubles match with W. J. Gallon and R. B. Galsworth. Alexander and his partner had won the first set and were leading in the second, while the accident occurred. Despite his injury, Alexander continued playing doubles, and his team finally won, 8—6, 2—6, 6—2. Alexander's accident may cost him his chance at the singles championship, which he had been closely contesting with his doubles partner, Dr. Rosenbaum, and the doubles championship, which he and the doctor appeared to have clinched.

Cardinal Gibbons to Aid Work of League to Enforce Peace

By International News Service.

New York, April 4.—Cardinal Gibbons gives strong endorsement to the League to Enforce Peace, in a letter written to former President Taft. The letter was read by Mr. Taft at the league's headquarters, said, in part:

The convention on "With the War for Permanent Peace" to be held in Philadelphia May 15 to 18, excited my lively interest. I do not hesitate to recommend to the clergy of the Catholic church active participation not only in the convention, but in the work of the League to Enforce Peace, which, under your leadership, has developed such a sane program, accompanied by such high aims.

Personally, I feel that such a league as you plan is essential at this stage in the world's history. Otherwise, we are likely to see retrogression, instead of further progress in human affairs.

BERTLING BRIDE SAYS FAREWELL TO ALIEN FOE

Former Miss Glotz Sees Kaiser's Propagandist Leave for Georgia War Camp

Dr. Karl Oskar Bertling, held as an alien enemy, bade farewell to his bride of less than twenty-four hours at the Scott Station today and departed for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where he will be interned until the end of the war.

The train left at 8.20. There was a pathetic yet stoical parting, and when the train started Mrs. Bertling ran along beside it for a short distance, and the doctor's last glimpse of his wife showed her waving her hand bravely, trying to suppress her emotion. Then she fled to escape the photographers.

The prisoner arrived at the station in charge of Deputy United States Marshal Backus and several other Federal officers. He was accompanied by another alien enemy, a sergeant in the uniform of an enlisted man in the United States Artillery. Both were taken to the smoker.

Bertling glanced indolently at a window and saw Mrs. Glotz, as was Miss Helen Glotz, a New York teacher, coming down the platform. He spoke to Deputy Backus, who permitted him to go out and greet her.

BRIDE RUNS WITH TRAIN.

Mrs. Bertling, who appears to be under thirty, is a blonde, with a rosy complexion. She wore a dark gray tailored suit, and a black three-cornered hat.

The couple clasped hands and began to chat cheerfully and animatedly. Neither showed any sign of depression over the fact that the doctor would be shut up until the end of the war.

Just before the train started Dr. Bertling took his wife in his arms, kissed her repeatedly and said, "Goodby, my darling." He then released her, as the train got under way hurried up the steps and into his seat, where he pressed his face to the window. As long as he could see her the prisoner kept his eyes fastened on his wife, who ran along, waved her hand. As the train pulled out of the station Mrs. Bertling stooped, gazed after it for a moment and then abruptly turned and hurried away.

Dr. Bertling and Miss Glotz were married late yesterday afternoon by Rev. John M. Wilson, pastor of the Church of Ascension, in the clergyman's home. The ceremony was simple and the bridegroom seemed to be in as good spirits as any of the small party.

FIVE-DAY LAW WAIVED.

These included Mrs. E. W. Gray of Lexington, Deputy Marshal Benjamin Scully and Assistant United States District Attorney F. D. Goodale. The authorities permitted Dr. Bertling to make the journey to Lexington for the wedding, in charge of Deputy Marshal Backus, who returned him to the East Cambridge jail immediately.

Judge Lawton of the Superior Court at Cambridge had waived the five-day law so that the marriage could take place. The ceremony was decided on when Dr. Bertling was arrested two days ago that he had that much time to straighten out his affairs before being interned.

BACK BAY CLUBMAN IN SECRET WEDDING

New York, with her mother, ostensibly on a shopping trip. Mr. Bisbee "just happened" to be in the city at the same time on a short furlough from the training camp at Deer Island, and the marriage of Miss Jewett and Mr. Bisbee was performed quietly and out of the sight of Mrs. Jewett and a select few friends of the bride, who were married in the Old Trinity Church.

Early Monday morning Mr. Bisbee returned to his post. Miss Bisbee, after spending some days with her mother, returned to her home at 30 Commonwealth avenue, and it was announced yesterday that she and her husband would live with her mother.

WERE SOON ENGAGED.

The romance began three years ago when Mr. Bisbee met Miss Jewett at the Jewett home in Thompson's Island, of the Conservatory of Music. The acquaintance ripened into love, and Miss Jewett made a deep impression on the young soldier when he was home on furlough from camp. From the beginning, and in a short time the young people were engaged. Mr. Bisbee's parents were informed of the engagement soon after it was announced by the family of the bride-to-be.

When the war broke George Bisbee was one of the first young men of prominence in the community to enlist in the service of the government. He placed the young man's name on the roll of the Massachusetts Naval Militia, and he was detailed to patrol the entrance to Boston harbor.

During last summer his headquarters were at Portsmouth. A few days after the declaration of war was made Bisbee left Boston for Washington, where he was commissioned an ensign in the Navy. In the Heath, intelligent service on the water, and because of sailing on the Mayflower.

CALLED TO OCEAN SERVICE.

In August came the summons for the young naval officer. He was ordered to duty in the transport service of the navy. It was then that he met Miss Jewett, who was also engaged in war work. Miss Jewett has been active in the work of the Navy Relief Society, and has been a member of the committee in charge of the Navy Relief Ball, which was held in the Copley-Plaza Hotel on the night of January 31.

Ensign Bisbee is the son of George Bisbee, Jr., well known in the business community of Boston. He was graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1912, and from Harvard College, of which he was first captain of the football team. Mr. Bisbee's father, Mrs. George Bisbee and his sister are now in Europe on war work, and are expected to arrive in this country in the near future.

Miss Jewett is the daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Charles Jewett, for many years pastor of the Church of the Unity, and a well known figure in the Boston community. Miss Jewett's mother, Mrs. Jewett, is a member of the Women's Municipal League, and is prominent in the social life of the city.

HONORS LIQUOR BAN IN WILL OF WIFE

Burbank to Carry Out Unique Provisions in Legacy by Brookline Woman

"I make none of my wife's request," said Winfield S. Burbank of Brookline, when told today that he would carry out the provisions of the will of his wife, who died on January 18, 1918, leaving an estate of $8,000 if he would give another $8,000 to charity.

Mr. Burbank, who is an elderly man and the owner of a family, asserted that he could never subscribe to excess. He said that his wife died before she would be called upon to act on the will, so that, he said, Winfield S. Burbank, Jr., is responsible for this provision in the will.

"I shall honor my wife's request," said Mr. Burbank. We lived together forty years. She was ill when she drew up the will a year ago. I'm not really versed in the phraseology of wills, but she drew up a paper, three times when I drank moderately, but my wife had a horror of liquor. She felt that the saloon was a place entirely [illegible] otherwise. Now she is gone, and her wishes, which were always law in my home, will be carried out."

Mrs. Burbank conducted a business of her own when I came in contact with her. She was a lady of thrift, character and was born in or as long as I can remember. Judging from that I have known her, she would be loath to believe that I was an habitual drunkard. Her wishes in the matter are to me law, and I should be pleased to have that light before the public.

HINDU AND WOMAN DENY PLOT CHARGE

New York, April 4.—Pleas of not guilty were entered to Surendra Nath Sirkar and Miss Agnes Smedley, who were indicted as Hindu plotters by the Federal Grand Jury, and they entered the courtroom accompanied by counsel. The government was then represented by Assistant United States District Attorney Nathaniel Pitt. Its object was to prosecute only against the British in India.

Miss Smedley is charged with writing articles for the Hindu publication, Gadhar, which are alleged to be disloyal to the cause of the anti-British party. The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, pastor of the Church of the Ascension, was said to be interested in her case, as were the Hindu are in the Tombs under bail.

BOOST THE FUND FOR PATRIOTIC SPORT!

Plan to Build Camp Devens Grandstand Approved All Along the Line.

Hence the official approval by General Hodges and the indorsement by the general public.

GET OUT AND BOOST.

Talk up the Fund. Tell it to your neighbors. Don't forget to do your "bit" for it, in cash or check as well.

A sample of the praise of the Fund is a letter received by the AMERICAN from Representative William H. McDonnell of the Tenth Suffolk District. He writes:

"Editor Boston AMERICAN:

"Accept my congratulations in your determination to raise a fund through popular subscription to provide adequate facilities for baseball at Camp Devens. It is a splendid idea, and one which will meet with the unanimous approval of the boys in the service.

"There is a point which I desire to call to your attention, and one which the public should know. That is the fact that, on account of general orders issued by the War Department prohibiting the collection of funds on men in uniform, the only way to raise money is through outside organizations will be acknowledged in the columns of the Boston AMERICAN.

"So with the Fund then.

The boys at Camp Devens are giving all they have in their country's cause.

Those on the civilian end can certainly afford to help the boys with their baseball plans.

CHAPLAIN ARTHUR W. STONE of the Boston Navy Yard:

I cannot speak too highly of this plan. The idea and the spirit behind it are equally splendid. The development of athletics helps to strengthen the men morally and physically, and an athletic field at Camp Devens will be one more step toward winning the war.

COLONEL GEORGE B. BILLINGS:

Anything which tends toward clean amusement for our soldiers in the cantonments and camps should be liberally supported. An athletic field with adequate arrangements for viewing contests should be a part of every camp. I am delighted with all that has been done to make life easier and more pleasant for the boys and the plan proposed by Major General Hodges through the AMERICAN seems quite as important as some of the other good works for which the people have contributed.

MAYOR EDWARD QUINN, of Cambridge:

The BOSTON AMERICAN is to be highly commended for its splendid plan to give an athletic field to the soldier boys at Camp Devens. It is a most worthy cause, and everybody should do his or her bit to help.

MAYOR EDWARD E. WILLARD, of Chelsea:

The project to provide means for healthful recreation for our boys at Camp Devens has my heartiest support, and I am pleased to forward my small contribution for this baseball fund to Lieutenant Robert C. Deming.

MAYOR EDWIN O. CHILDS of Newton:

The idea is a wonderful one. The boys at Camp Devens are preparing to sacrifice their lives in France for us. Surely we can afford them a place for clean recreation while they the here. You can be sure that Newton people will do their utmost in this cause.

JUDGE JOSEPH H. BARNES of the East Boston District Court:

I am immensely pleased with the Boston AMERICAN'S proposal to open its columns for subscriptions to a fund which will provide a modern baseball and football field for the soldiers at Camp Devens. I am very glad to be able to help the boys.

LOUIS A. COOK, JR., assistant clerk of Superior Court at Dedham:

I congratulate the Boston AMERICAN on having so promptly grasped the opportunity for a new and very useful war service for our own New England boys. Memories of the torrid red clay of Camp Alger during the Spanish War make me glad to help improve conditions at Camp Devens.

DEPUTY SHERIFF OSCAR D. CAPEN, of Norfolk County:

It gives me pleasure to donate towards the Boston AMERICAN Camp Devens Baseball Fund. The AMERICAN is always ready to make life pleasant for the soldiers, among whom is my own son.

PETER LA COURT, Interpreter of the Exemption Board of Division No. 2, East Boston:

The Boston AMERICAN Camp Devens Baseball Fund is bully. Nothing is too good for those boys up there. I am forwarding my check for $5.

ANDREW J. PRIOR, Sealer of Weights and Measures, Newton — Everyone who cares anything for sports at all will endorse the Boston AMERICAN'S plan to give our soldiers at Camp Devens an opportunity to enjoy clean and healthy sports.

THOMAS F. LYONS, Member of Newton Playground Commission:

Recreation and play should be a part of every one's life, although it is often neglected in our busy modern world. By all means give our soldiers a chance to enjoy themselves. They are willing to give their all for us. Let us do at least a little for them.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS LEAVITT, Wards 10-23 Dorchester:

I am greatly impressed by the Boston AMERICAN'S campaign for a baseball diamond and athletic field at Camp Devens. We cannot do too much to promote the comfort of the boys who are doing and sacrificing so much for us at home.

STANLEY J. GALLAGHTR, 1888 Dorchester avenue, Ashmont:

Great idea. I know what the boys enjoy most. It is baseball. I myself served three years in the Signal Corps.

HARRY N. VAUGHN, member of Melrose Park Commission:

The project for the athletic field at Camp Devens is certainly a worthy object and I shall be glad to do what I can to aid it.

CHARLES HILL, president of the Malden High Field Corporation:

I shall be glad to do what I can to make the baseball field at Camp Devens a reality. The AMERICAN'S activity in its behalf is to be commended.

THORNTON JENKINS, headmaster of Malden High School:

Anything I can do to help the boys at Camp Devens get their athletic field I shall be glad to do. The fund ought to be many times oversubscribed, as I have no doubt it will.

CHARLES BRUCE, former Mayor of Everett:

The project has my heartiest indorsement. I will gladly do what I can to further the plan, and the earlier the field is a reality, the better.

JAMES CHAMBERS, former Mayor of Everett:

We are training the boys to fight the Huns, and the better training we can give them, the better account they will render of themselves. With such a field for sports, especially baseball, they will get both training and happiness.

WILLIAM F. LEAHY, former president of the Medford Board of Trade:

I approve of baseball whether it be in the army or the navy or anywhere else. It is one of the best war projects I have heard mentioned.

CHARLES SMITH, Medford druggist and baseball fan:

When you speak of baseball, that is all you need to say to have me indorse it. Congratulations to the AMERICAN for its interest in the sport.

JAMES M. KEYES, of South Boston:

A splendid idea of the AMERICAN to help the boys at Camp Devens to enjoy a little recreation when not undergoing the severe military training at the camp.

GERMAN LANDS IN JAIL FOR ABUSING WILSON

Llano, Tex., April 4.—Paul Vogt is under arrest here as an enemy alien. He abused President Wilson in the presence of Earl Meers, a Negro, who swore out the warrant. Vogt, who is a German, said he had travelled from New York to California and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf in the interest of Germany.

WARTIME RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

Actress Gives Simple, Inexpensive Recipe for Streaked or Faded Gray Hair

Mrs. Mackie, the well known New York actress, now a grandmother, and whose hair is still dark, recently made the following statement: "Gray streaked or faded hair can be immediately turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following simple remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a small box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs only 25 cents and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in one ounce of water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use come in each box. "You need not hesitate to use Orlex, as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, iodine, coal-tar products or their derivatives.

"It does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look many years younger."—Advertisement.

No. 1 In a new series

1918 is truly the year of testing—both at home and abroad. The temptation across the water to halt in the fight for human liberty—to make peace with only part of America's lofty program achieved—will be matched by the temptation at home to relax customary standards of quality, and because business may not come so easily, to go after the cheap and easy dollar.

Both business judgment in making your clothing dollars go farthest, and the spirit of patriotism in insisting that sincerity and integrity shall continue to rule in America, alike demand all dealers should carry, and all wearers should buy, only clothing of unquestioned reliability. Here in Boston, men are doubly fortunate in being able to turn in utter security to

Morse-Made Clothes

For more than 65 years Morse clothes have been made up to a standard—not down to a price. Yet Morse clothes have never been high in price, quality considered. For side by side with the leisurely making which alone assures clothes well made in every detail of cutting and sewing, have gone economies in organization and systematizing which have climaxed in the specializing of each skilled tailor on a single operation in the making—resulting in a disciplined steadiness which actually outstrips untrained haste and "rush."

And back of this unexampled precision in making is an inside designing worthy of special note. Inside designing is vastly more important than the merely outside kind—for on it depend comfort, long wear, continuing fit and style. Many a coat has depended upon extreme style—its cuffs and pleats and belts—for its sale, while actually it has been merely thrown together. Outside style is often the camouflage beneath which the shoddiest making takes successful refuge. (This subject is so important that we shall go into details of making in advertisements which follow.)

These are times when every man must pay more attention to the character and quality of his clothing than ever before. And in the advertisements which follow this, you will be given definite standards by which you can be sure to purchase clothing patriotically and wisely, to buy only worthy garments, and know what you are buying.

Cut this advertisement out—save it—take it and the others in the series with you, when buying clothes. The next advertisement will discuss "shoulders and arm holes" and will appear in this paper next week. Watch for it!

SAILOR'S THROAT CUT BY GLASS IN CANDY

Proprietor and Clerk, Both Alien Enemies, Arrested on Complaint of Jack Tar

By International News Service.

New York, April 4.—William Lewis, a sailor of the receiving ship New York, with blood in his mouth from cuts in the throat, re-entered the candy store run by Henry Willens of Brooklyn, to demand an explanation. He had left the store a few minutes previously with some candy, just purchased.

Lewis' complaint was carried to the police and officers assured themselves the candy shown by Lewis contained a substance resembling splintered glass.

Federal authorities sent the candy to a laboratory to be analyzed. They said it was manufactured in Trenton, N. J.

Edward Waller, proprietor of the store, and Willems, both aliens, were placed under arrest by United States Marshal James M. Powars, pending analysis of their stock of candy seized by the Board of Health.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get from any drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

How to buy real hosiery

Satisfaction

The wrong way to get foot-comfort is to buy stockings on the basis of price.

The right way is to buy hosiery that exactly fits your feet and your needs.

If your feet burn, ache, and quickly tire, maybe it's the fault of misfit hosiery that gathers, binds, or quickly tears.

Today buy a pair of Ipswich socks or stockings Over 50,000,000 pairs were sold last year. Made in styles that range all the way from sturdy, cushiony cotton socks for men to the beautiful fibre silk and lisle flare-top stockings for women.

Over a million pairs of Ipswich Hosiery are being worn with entire satisfaction by our Soldier and Sailor boys.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why help the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.—Advertisement.

ASKS NEW YORK MAYORS TO AID WAR WORK

Secretary Baker Urges Them to Aid in Lessening Spirit of Unrest

By International News Service.

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—In a message transmitted to Secretary William P. Capes, of the State Conference of Mayors, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker has appealed to the mayors of New York State to frustrate attempts by enemy agents to foment disloyalty and dissatisfaction at home and to show a united front to the enemy.

"Our old municipal enemies, fire, disease, bad housing, vice and crime are powerful allies of the enemy, the reduction of which is a pressing patriotic duty," said Secretary Baker in his message.

"Let us set our national house in order, fight injustice at home, whether promoted by the Kaiser's servants or growing out of your own selfishness and errors, remove the causes of unrest and discontent and aid to distribute fairly the burdens of this war. The national administration must have and will have, I know, your aid in this.

"Let us win by kindness and consideration, minds made sullen by misunderstanding and isolation, rather than employ harshness and coercion—unthinkable rather Prussian than American. Let us not forget that every outrage to the personal rights of even the most humble—in fact, most of all to them—is a potent aid to the enemy and destructive of our ability to achieve victory."

Death Penalty for Spies Demanded by Taft

Muskogee, Okla., April 4.—"Spies should be court-martialled, lined up, and shot; those who express treasonable sentiments should be tried and punished, but in all cases law should be obeyed and mob violence should be everywhere condemned that the United States may not sink to the lawless savagery of the Germans," former President Taft declared here in an address before the Chamber of Commerce.

PASS GOOD FRIDAY BILL IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, April 4.—Party lines were shattered in the House of Representatives when the bill making Good Friday a holiday passed 21 to 14. Republicans and Democrats argued in favor of the bill which will go to the Senate for ratification. Opponents of the bill say it will be killed in the Senate.

BLOOMER GIRLS HEAR TALK ON WAR WORK

Canadian Officer Warns Them Many Women May Have to Don Overalls

Her work was attacked with renewed vigor by the eight hundred fashionable girls at the Alice S. Wentworth School in Cambridge, through the combination of a speaking-out and a walking-out, when Lieutenant Milton, wounded and invalided home after two years' service in the front-line trenches in the Dardanelles and Dardanelles, told them what France, now on exhibition in the Boston Museum fighting at Verdun and Ypres streets.

Lieutenant Milton, who is a Canadian and is a magnetic speaker, was introduced to the girls in the Cambridge factory-room by Miss Wentworth. They punctuated his address with cheers. When he ended his speech the girls shook his hand and promised him that they would keep their own work speeded up to the utmost.

Lieutenant Milton, congratulated the girls on their appearance in bloomer costume. He pictured conditions in England, where six million girls and women wear similar costumes or munitions plants and said the Cambridge girls were "prototypes of their English sisters."

He brought a message of cheer from English women to their American sisters and hoped that the time would never come when American women would be enticed to take over men's work to the extent English women have. But he sees warning that of the 7,000,000 or more percentage of American women and girls who will be obliged to join industry and do shop work for men gone to the front.

He emphasized that the war situation now calls for America's best help, saying:

"America must stand ready to spend her last dollar and her last drop of blood rather than permit the Prussian militarism and autocracy to be shattered."

WARRENS PLAN LEGAL BATTLE OVER CHILD

Wife Accuses Her Husband of Cruelty in Brookline Divorce Case

With the filing of an answer by Mrs. Harriet G. Warren of Brookline to the charges made by her husband, Everett Allen Warren, also of Brookline, in his suit for a divorce, which has been pending in the Norfolk County Superior Court of Equity since last December, another chapter was written into the famous case, and it seems certain that there will be no more periods in custody cases of the kind.

Although attorneys for both Mr. and Mrs. Warren refused to make any statements it was contended that the case is not one for the benefit of Mrs. Warren and not, Everett Allen Warren, Jr., who has been given into the custody of his father for five days and his mother for two days of each week, pending a decision in the case. Both parents are anxious to keep the custody and will make every effort to secure the custody in order to secure him.

The Warrens were married at Lynchburg, N. H., and lived in Boston and Brookline up to the time of their separation on November 25, 1917. The divorce case has been pending since December.

When the proceedings were begun by Mr. Warren, sensational charges were made against Mrs. Warren, which created an unusual stir, particularly because of Mrs. Warren's society and her devotion to her child.

Mrs. Warren, through her attorney, Charles E. Rowley, denies that she was ever guilty of any improper conduct. On the other hand she claims that her husband was cruel, abusive and overbearing.

It is probable that some action will be taken on the case at this term of the courts.

THE SUIT is all right until then, but when the pocket goes the entire suit looks like the last rose of Summer.

Filene hand-tailored clothes for boys $18 to $25

All pockets in these famous clothes are made with a stay running from pocket to arm to keep the pocket from breaking down.

But the pocket is only one feature that makes Filene hand-tailored clothes for boys a revelation to mothers who have ever bought ordinary clothes for their boys.

What is the Nemo Hygienic-Fashion Institute? It is a sort of specialized college in which a regular course of study is given by a woman physician. Its pupils study anatomy, particularly of the trunk of the body, and the relation between anatomy and corsets.

To have a Nemo corset fitted the Filene way is as good as having the big Nemo factory make a corset especially for YOU. The Filene fitting room is the only necessary link.

GERMANS JAIL WOMEN FOR TARDINESS

Munitions Workers Sentenced Despite Ignorance of Military Orders to Return

By International News Service.

Washington, April 4.—Women and men employed on munitions work in Berlin were sentenced by court martial to imprisonment for from three weeks to three months for tardiness in returning to work after the February strikes, according to an article in the Munitions Trust, made public here.

Many of the women imprisoned were sent straight from the court to their cells, though some of them had little children at home waiting for them.

Others were sentenced despite their ignorance of the military order requiring their return to work, because they had accepted other employment or returned to their homes in the country.

The article bitterly attacks the severity of the courts.

PLAN to PLANT and WIN the WAR

URGE SENATORS TO RAISE PAY OF TEACHERS

Members of the State Senate are urged, in a letter sent out by the Boston Teachers' Club, to use their influence in behalf of better pay for Boston school teachers.

The letter points out that teachers' pay has not been increased since 1913, and that girls just out of high school get much better jobs than the average teacher can get after four years of specialized training. It follows:

"The bill for increasing the salaries of the Boston teachers (House 830) is now before your honorable body for consideration.

"We will you kindly give it your careful thought, having in mind that the Mayor does not oppose it; that the City Council has gone on record as heartily endorsing it; that the Finance Commission agrees that it is just request, and that the School Committee and teachers are unanimously and earnestly desiring it to pass as it stands, also that there has been absolutely no protest, but, on the contrary, much approval from both the public and the press.

"Remember that good teachers are scarce and the scarcity is increasing fast. There are 350 fewer students in Massachusetts Normal Schools preparing for teachers than one year ago. Fifty-nine pupils have left the Normal School in Boston during the school year to seek other lines of work, schools in Virginia, Iowa and other States are closed for lack of teachers (so reported at the Educational Convention in Atlantic City in March, 1918.)

"Boston will fall behind if she does not give salaries to teachers commensurate with the cost of living, other lines of work will take the best men and women.

"Boston teachers' salaries are now the same as in 1913. Cost of living has gone up with leaps and bounds in the last five years, but the teachers' salaries have remained the same. It is poor economy to save money at the expense of Boston schools.

"Out of twenty-one graduates from the Boston High School in June, 1917, one has a position for $12.50, one for $11.00, one for $11, one for $12.50, four for $12, two for $10, two for $9, one for $8.50, seven for $8, and one for $6, while last girl rises to car fares or lunches, hence the low price."

Hostler Found Dead

James Hennessey, sixty, of Mill street, Everett, was found sick in a stable at No. 457 Harrison avenue, where he was employed as hostler. He was rushed to the City Hospital, but was dead on his arrival there.

MORE LAND FOR WAR GARDENS IS URGED

George H. Johnson, president of the H. H. White Company, has been appointed chairman of the Food Conservation Committee of the Committee on Public Safety. He succeeds Daniel H. Chaffey, who resigned recently.

William Austin French, a member of the National War Garden Commission at Washington, who is in the city in connection with the work, said: "Interest in the 'back yard' garden work, says the Franklin Park project, for the coming season, as planned by Chairman Heath, is one of the most constructive pieces of work he has seen in his trips through the country. He suggested even more land could be utilized at the park.

"Boston, like all other great cities, has got to get down to brass tacks as it will be the hard card within a few months," he said.

"The city garden work is splendid. There is a lot more available land though about the city, I have done. A person who has available land for such purposes and does not utilize it is seriously neglectful, to my mind. Boston has done great work and it looks as though she was going to have a record-breaking season. This year, I've been around the city and looked the situation over.

"Too much stress cannot be laid upon the value of back yard gardens."

Pastor to Train as Officer

The Rev. C. H. Brandeis of the Northbridge Congregational church, Thousand Oaks, has resigned as a pastor, has been appointing to the officers' training school, Camp Devens.

HARVARD JUNIOR PROM WILL HELP RED CROSS

Harvard's military program hasn't displaced the undergraduate fondness for the dance, as the annual Junior Prom will be held April 11 in the Harvard Union. While members of the junior class are engaged in war service, a score or more being overseas, a good attendance at the dance is expected. Supper will be served. Any surplus after the dance will be given to the Red Cross.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR SAUGUS MAN

Arrangements have been completed for a military funeral for Alfred H. Hanson of Saugus, who died at the Naval Hospital, Portsmouth, Va., early this week. B and C Companies of the Massachusetts State Guard, Saugus Lodge, Knights of Pythias, and the uniformed rank, Knights of Pythias, will take part. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon, with services at the East Saugus M. E. Church.

HARVARD SENIORS DELAY GETTING CAPS AND GOWNS

Only twenty-eight members of the senior class at Harvard have made arrangements to be fitted for their caps and gowns and the class committee reminded the men that only a few more days remain to be outfitted for the Commencement ceremonies. The seniors, from May 1 to Commencement Day, wear their caps and gowns and this year will lend an academic touch to the martial atmosphere about Harvard.

The World Takes a Man Pretty Much at His Face Value

WE want to impress every young man with the importance of giving himself a fair show.

For the spick and spanness—the clean, ruddy look that is the trademark of the Gillette everywhere—is the seal of approval that nature puts upon success.

And a successful man is never slovenly. He never neglects his personal appearance. For he knows the world takes him at his face value.

And if the world has to look through a quarter-of-an-inch of whiskers to see a man she may overlook him altogether.

You know that the Gillette will gain you time, money, and personal appearance. Aren't these things any good to you?

You don't have to strop or hone your Gillette. This saves labor. If you apply this labor to something constructive it might make a great difference to you. Also to everybody that thinks you are just about right.

DON'T waste time, labor, money, and that right-on-the-job appearance that belongs to you. Or that your employer is paying you for. And would gladly pay more if you gave him more of it to pay for.

But kick in. Join the legions of the top-notch men who are doing the world's big work—they are the Gillette users.

Another thing—and that is the importance of using the Gillette regularly and right. Hold the razor naturally and easily, and tilt the handle so you can just feel the blade engage the beard.

(Here's where some men make a mistake. They tilt the handle up or down too much and make a scraper of a Gillette instead of a razor.)

Keep the edge of the blade as nearly flat against the skin as you possibly can. Then shave with short, slanting strokes.

Most men get the best results by screwing the blade tight down to the guard. But if you want an extra-close shave, just unscrew the handle a part turn, to loosen the edge a trifle from the guard.

NOW, just stand in front of the mirror, and check up on your razor technic a little. It will pay you to fuss around with this idea until you get it. It's a little thing, but it's important.

And don't go away and leave your razor to unscrew itself, wipe and dry its parts, and put itself back on the shelf again.

Help it out a little. How can you expect a clean shave with a rusty razor? It isn't in the deck at all.

We tell you these things for your good as well as for ours.

For we know that if you take care of your Gillette there isn't a beard on earth so tough and wiry or a skin so tender but the Gillette will deliver a velvet-smooth shave without roughness or irritation—and No Stropping—No Honing.

Don't take our word for this. But lather up well. And rub the lather in thoroughly. Then hold the razor like a razor. And see what happens.

NOW, about Blades:

You don't think the second time about blowing in a dollar or so for a new tie—when you've got a whole "raft" of them hanging up on your cravat-rack at home.

Or you don't begrudge the cost of a little game of Kelly pool or a pair of theatre tickets. Do you?

And yet you use the same old Gillette blade for a couple of weeks at a time. Right before the mirror—where you have to look yourself in the eye while you're doing it.

Now this isn't because you're stingy. It's because you're thoughtless. You're downright careless about these small things.

Man to man, is this giving yourself a square deal?

The Gillette can be one hundred per cent efficient in your hands if it has your cooperation. So for the love of Mike, put in a new blade the next time you shave!

The Meaning of Gillette Service

The Gillette Service Experts and all Gillette dealers want to be of service to every Gillette user in town.

They will show you that little knack of the Gillette Shave—how to prepare the face for shaving; the correct angle stroke; the adjustment for a tight or a close shave.

Bring in your Gillette, have it looked over. It may be damaged, bent, out of alignment—They may make some valuable suggestions or put your razor in shape free of charge.

Try this when you shave tomorrow morning:

Lather the beard thoroughly, and rub well in—that's essential with any shave.

Put in a new blade and screw the handle down tight. Then if you want a specially close shave, unscrew the handle a part turn.

Hold the razor naturally and easily, and tilt the handle so you can just feel the blade engage the beard.

(Here's where some men make a mistake. They tilt the handle up or down too much and make a scraper of a Gillette instead of a razor.)

Then shave with short, slanting strokes. It doesn't require any brute force to shave with a Gillette—the razor does the work.

Keep the edge of the blade as nearly flat against the skin as you can. Any man will catch the knack of using his Gillette in one or two shaves so he won't feel the slightest pull. In fact, when the Gillette is properly used the beard slips off without your knowing it.

The all-important thing is to lather well, and to hold the razor easily, with the handle tilted so the blade will just engage the beard.

TRENCH STORY BRINGS BRIDE TO SAILOR

Bluejacket Norris of Oklahoma Weds Somerville Girl Who Admired His Experiences

By PAUL F. WHELTON.

Aboard the Receiving Ship, Commonwealth Pier, April 4.—When, at the New Year Miss Winnie Andrews of Somerville asked Gunnerville read to the inmates of certain hospitals of a letter sent by the invalids at a British soldier by Machine Gunner Charles Fitzherron Norris, U. S. N., and was inevitable Fate got in hand with his roaming mate. Psychological Moment—and for whom of fortune was upon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bluejacket Charles Frederick Norris on March 30 signed articles of agreement for better or worse and for matrimony from the time of false as one.

The story of Norris' trench life made Miss Andrews realize that the sailor was the correct person to lead her home and visiting nights at the Andrews home were soon in order. Norris was not introduced to the members of her home fireside, but he could not reciprocate in like manner as his original standing orders are located in Oklahoma.

"And so we were married," said Bluejacket Norris. "It sure paid to adventure in my case."

Seaman Gunner Norris has enrolled the story of his marital venture in a letter now on its way to Jack Stanley, a member of the Eighth Irish Regiment with whom Norris spent his year of love in the rotten trenches of the Mustard Field at Ypres. Stanley is now convalescing in a South Wales hospital, where he was billeted from the front less than a month ago.

"He will not be sore to have missed this big drive," said Norris, commenting on his wonderful ever, white companion, who was a "Lance Jack Corporal" under the sailor when they were both serving on the Mustard Field.

"There is no man I have ever met who faced the dangers and monotones like almost sure death of No Man's Land will appreciate courage but he will certainly receive a shock, when he learns that I have been married.

Editorial.

The extended hikes they will soon be taking should prove to be of great benefit to the boys at Camp Devens. Although the physical benefits are an important consideration from a standpoint of military efficiency, the mental aspect of this form of training is one of its outstanding features.

The hikes will take the boys away from the environment in which they have lived for six months. It will take them out of the monotonous routine which to most of them has become irksome and wearisome, and it will also bring them closer to the people whose battles they are going forth to fight.

The homage that will be paid them by the people of the communities through which they march or in which they may camp should make them realize that the sacrifices they are making are appreciated that they are not mere automatons, whose destinies are guided by the hand of State, but soldiers whose interests are the interests of the country.

It should bring back to them the knowledge that their real lives are still outside of the cantonment.

"Horse" On Boston Troopers at the French Front

Here's a horse laugh on some Boston boys in one of our military units sent to France.

They belong to an extra horse transport and were in charge of a detachment which was leaving for another point. Then started the investigation, as they found they had yet not received from one of the Boston quartermasters.

But no horse was in France. He showed only French commands. He wouldn't stand at ease or rest armed or do anything for Yankee commands. "Hillside and Whoa, Back" were about all he knew.

At last accounts it was a question whether the horse would care to learn English or the soldiers learn French.

The only time the horse responds is when they bring him some oats. He eats in any old language.

RESERVISTS WAIT FOR K. OF C. ENTERTAINERS

The naval reservists at Bumpkin Island are impatiently waiting for Sunday, when the Golden Rule Club will visit the island and give a popular entertainment.

The club, founded by members of the Knights of Columbus who contribute a certain sum each week for entertainment, has visited Camps Devens and Commonwealth Pier, on each occasion receiving tremendous applause.

The entertainment, consisting of minstrel show, dancing and features in which Miss Iora Hall is the star, was put on at Camp Devens on Washington's birthday.

ROALD AMUNDSEN TO SPEAK IN WORCESTER

Worcester, April 4.—Roald Amundsen, the discoverer of the South Pole, has been engaged by the organizations of Worcester to be the principal speaker at a patriotic meeting to be held in Mechanics Hall April 4 at the opening of the third Liberty Loan drive to be conducted in the Scandinavians. Dr. F. Julius Quist is chairman of the executive committee in charge of the drive.

TRENCH STORY BRINGS BRIDE TO SAILOR

By PAUL F. WHELTON.

Aboard the Receiving Ship, Commonwealth Pier, April 4.—When, at the New Year Miss Winnie Andrews of Somerville asked Gunnerville read to the inmates of certain hospitals of a letter sent by the invalids at a British soldier by Machine Gunner Charles Fitzherron Norris, U. S. N., and was inevitable Fate got in hand with his roaming mate. Psychological Moment—and for whom of fortune was upon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bluejacket Charles Frederick Norris on March 30 signed articles of agreement for better or worse and for matrimony from the time of false as one.

The story of Norris' trench life made Miss Andrews realize that the sailor was the correct person to lead her home and visiting nights at the Andrews home were soon in order. Norris was not introduced to the members of her home fireside, but he could not reciprocate in like manner as his original standing orders are located in Oklahoma.

"And so we were married," said Bluejacket Norris. "It sure paid to adventure in my case."

Seaman Gunner Norris has enrolled the story of his marital venture in a letter now on its way to Jack Stanley, a member of the Eighth Irish Regiment with whom Norris spent his year of love in the rotten trenches of the Mustard Field at Ypres. Stanley is now convalescing in a South Wales hospital, where he was billeted from the front less than a month ago.

"He will not be sore to have missed this big drive," said Norris, commenting on his wonderful ever, white companion, who was a "Lance Jack Corporal" under the sailor when they were both serving on the Mustard Field.

"There is no man I have ever met who faced the dangers and monotones like almost sure death of No Man's Land will appreciate courage but he will certainly receive a shock, when he learns that I have been married.

REGIMENT MAY MARCH TO BOSTON

Col. Tompkins Plans Drills to Give People an Insight to Army Work

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 4.—The march of Boston will soon have a chance to get a "close up" of "Boys Over There" in action if the wishes of Colonel Frank Tompkins, commander of the 76th regiment, are carried out. Colonel Tompkins wants to take his regiment to Boston. He wants to stage an indoor exhibition drill in Mechanics building and an outdoor exhibition on Boston Common, or some other suitable spot where the relatives and friends of his soldiers may see their boys go "over the top," bayonet practice, dummies with bayonets, pitch tents, cook in the open and a host of other things made necessary by the modern methods of warfare.

The regiment is to march "Over There" from the cantonment to Boston and to make the trip in two days. The boys will spend one night in camp en route. The Colonel also hopes to secure permission to quarter the regiment in the South Boston Armories.

He wants to show the people of Boston how well their boys look, how far they have progressed in their training as soldiers and the spirit which predominates their life in the army.

Colonel Tompkins is proud of his command, and he has reason to be. It is one of the best in the national army. The methods adopted by Tompkins is in keeping with the program of intensified training that is soon to be carried out by all of the infantry regiments in the cantonment. One of the principal ideas is to teach the men how to rely upon themselves in the open and get them used to long marches.

If Colonel Tompkins' wishes are sanctioned, the people of Boston will have an opportunity to witness what will probably be the finest military exhibition ever held in the city.

The colonel, however, does not expect to take his command to Boston until the regiment has been filled to its fighting strength and the new men have become accustomed to the boys in the colonel's plan.

LOSSES BY SUBMARINES SHOW BIG DECREASE

London, April 4.—The sinking of battle vessels of 1,600 tons or more, seven smaller vessels and one fishing vessels during the past week bears out the promise of Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, that the fine showing losses would continue to go steadily downward.

MONTPELIER SOLDIER IS KILLED IN ACTION

Burlington, Vt., April 4.—A Terrell of the Lane Manufacturing Company, Montpelier, Vt., has received a telegram stating that his son Archie, a member of a Canadian infantry company, has been killed in action. The young man was twenty-three years old.

SOLDIER MUST PAY WIFE THO' SEPARATED

New Ruling by War Department; Woman Must Prove She Was Justified

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 4.—Instructions have been sent to soldiers making allotments of pay to dependents to make sure that the authorities at Washington have the correct addresses of their dependents, as the omission of a digit will permit the delivery of pay allotments at forwarding addresses.

The neglect of dependents to notify Washington of changes in their addresses has largely been responsible for the numerous delays in the receipt of allotments. These delays have been the cause of much suffering in numerous cases and the new instructions have been issued to correct the situation to a large extent.

It has also been made known here that wives of soldiers who were living apart from their husbands when the latter were drafted are entitled to a share of their husband's pay, provided they can prove the grounds of their separation were justifiable.

There were 2,393 men sent to this cantonment in the first increment of the second draft aside from the Negroes received here from the South, according to figures made public today. Of this number 2,133 were from Massachusetts, 964 from Connecticut, 250 from Rhode Island, 230 from Maine, 211 from New Hampshire, 141 from Vermont, and eight from New York.

WAR CROSSES FOR 2 MORE U. S. MEN

German Shell Bursts on Diamond, Breaks Up Game, but Hurts None

With the American Army in France, April 4.—Two more American officers have won the Croix de Guerre. The coveted decorations were bestowed today on Lieutenant C. R. Holmes of South Carolina, who captured a German sentry from his post and brought him to the American lines.

Sergeant James A. Murphy, who shot a German soldier who was trying to kill an American officer during a raid.

SHELL STOPS BALL GAME.

An enemy shell which landed near a certain division headquarters today started the centre of a diamond on which American doughboys were playing baseball. The great American game was interrupted, but all the players escaped unhurt and there were not casualties among the spectators.

Gifts and good luck souvenirs were showered today upon American forces en route to the Picardy front as they were billeted in a certain French town. Learning of the destination of the Americans, townspeople and soldiers stationed there gathered about them and wished them "bon voyage."

Many of the men spent the day in writing letters, and their only complaint of the shift was regret at leaving the trenches and dugouts they had been billeted. The troops were in the best and otherwise welcomed the change.

HUN AIRMEN DRIVEN OFF.

The Germans vigorously shelled parts of the front northwest of Toul during last night, but their bombardment had little effect. Clearing weather was followed by an increase in aerial activity, many sausages and aeroplanes being up. Several hostile planes which attempted to cross our lines were repulsed by our fire.

The enemy gas shelled troops on another sector of the front, not in the Toul area, the early morning, but there were no casualties.

URGE EPISCOPAL WOMEN SERVE AS DELEGATES

Clergy and Laity Call for Fuller Representation at Diocesan Convention

Women will be admitted to the next diocesan convention of Episcopal Churches of Massachusetts which opens in Huntington Hall, April 17, if the efforts of many clerical and lay delegates can prevail.

The old plan of admitting only three men and not any women from the parishes to the convention, when the women do largely all the work of parishes, is now considered antiquated.

It is argued that many of the men now present at the diocesan convention are not even communicants of the Episcopal Church, while the women seeking representation are in full membership.

Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity Church, is one of the strongest opponents to the admission of the fair sex on the ground of their lack of business ability.

In a published statement, headed by Rev. Frederic B. Allen, formerly archdeacon of Boston, the following reasons are advanced for admitting women to the convention:

It recognizes the responsibility of women for their full share in the work of the church.

"It will secure a more adequate representation of the small parishes where there may be women, for one reason or another, better qualified or more ready to act as delegates to the convention, than are men.

"It will secure that women may be more willing to agree amnle time for the whole convention than are many men.

"It is in harmony with the general movement in the world of civil and political women to share in the duties, privileges and responsibilities of public service.

"It has already been practically adopted by the conventions of a number of Dioceses, of which Pittsburgh, Missouri, Rhode Island and New Hampshire are notable instances.

"It is desired by a number of the most earnest and active of the women of our Diocese."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Look years younger! Use the old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

The Advantage of Buying Early

There always have been a number of clearly defined advantages enjoyed by the man who buys his clothes early in the season as [illegible]

But there's an added advantage this year. Good Clothes are scarce. To be sure, we have our normal stock and enough more to take care of the normal growth of our business, and then some more besides that for good measure. But

We can not fill in as in ordinary times. Part of our present stock cannot be duplicated [illegible] at prohibitive prices. Consequently, it is possible that late comers may find [illegible]

Especially is this true of

Kuppenheimer Suits

Because The House of Kuppenheimer has a national reputation for originating and perfecting new styles, it is most natural that those who want the new things while they are still new should turn to this famous make. We shall not be surprised, therefore, if our supply of Kuppenheimer Plattsburg, Sheridan and Upton models (the season's leaders) becomes pretty low before the habitually late comers get around. So don't you be a late comer this time. We have plenty of these models here now in the most delightful patterns imaginable.

$25 $27.50 $30 to $48

Other Suits at $15, $18, $20, $22.50, etc.

There's a vast variety of handsome fabrics exhibited in these low priced suits. The styles are all new and [illegible] short, they look as well as many higher priced garments, only they [illegible] service. A large number of them are young men's models. All of them are [illegible]

The Liberty Loan Parade On Saturday

Must Have the Right of Way!

and so we urge you to help us make Friday, not Saturday, the big clothing day this week.

SATURDAY, April 6—the first anniversary of the entrance of America into the war—will usher in the first day of the third great Liberty Loan. It will be a day made memorable by one of the largest and most inspiring parades Boston has ever seen.

Although Saturday is the "heaviest" clothing day of the week, all Boston's leading men's clothing stores will close—cheerfully—from one o'clock to six, Saturday afternoon, and practically every employe of these stores will march in the parade.

These clothing stores would gladly close for the rest of the day were it not that the evening is the only time when many men can get off to buy. So, mindful of their duty, irrespective of their own preferences, to give service, even under the most difficult conditions, those Boston clothing stores which regularly keep open Saturday evenings will endeavor to do so the coming Saturday as well.

But because the length of the parade, and possible delays, may make reopening Saturday evening difficult, and restrict the service, these stores have also decided to keep open Friday evening until 9 P. M., and to urge every man who plans to buy clothing this week to buy some time Friday if he can, so that he can be assured of ample time in selection, and secure the thorough, painstaking service to which he is entitled.

Will you help—help to make Saturday memorable for the cause of Liberty and the triumph of American arms—by purchasing Men's and Boys' Spring Suits and Overcoats and Furnishings today or Friday? Remember, the stores below will be open Friday for your convenience from 8:30 in the morning till 9 o'clock at night.

How pure these flakes must be

Things you never dreamed could be laundered

A few years ago, how you dreaded to trust your delicate things to soap and water!

Today, who thinks of sending Georgettes to the cleaner's? or precious laces? or the most expensive sweaters? or delicate hangings? There's a better way, quicker, much less expensive.

You do it yourself—keep them like new with Lux, the modern form of soap. Things you never dreamed could be laundered, you now trust unhesitatingly to the pure, delicate flakes which whisk up into the richest lather and cleanse without rubbing.

Without the purity of Lux, delicate and unusual things could not be trusted to even this new way of washing.

If water alone won't hurt a fabric, then Lux won't.

Delicate colors come from the Lux suds as fresh as when new. If the water alone does not cause the color to "run," Lux won't to the slightest degree.

Try it yourself. You will be delighted. Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

BEATS SHERIFF AND FLEES POSSE

Man with Axe Handle Greets Officer as He Tries to Make Arrest

Pittsfield, April 4.—While trying to arrest Robert Bailey of New Marlboro, a man with a long jail record, Deputy Sheriff Lew Rhoades of Canaan, Ct., was struck over the head with a pickaxe handle in the hands of Bailey, and brother officers thought for a time he had been killed.

The affair happened at the Bailey home in New Marlboro. Bailey is wanted to answer to a charge of breaking into a house in Canaan Valley, a few days ago.

The party made up to capture him consisted of Deputy Sheriff Rhoades, Deputy Sheriff Reimer of Salisbury, Ct., Deputy Sheriff Stefanco P. Clark of Sheffield, William Torrant, a member of Canaan, Ct., and Frank Doty, a conductor on the New Haven railroad.

The posse approached Bailey's house at 11:30 at night and found Bailey's parents down stairs. They were told Bailey and one or more companions were in the attic.

Rhoades carried a lantern, and as he opened the attic door he was met by Bailey with a pickaxe handle. His first blow disabled Rhoades for any further duty. Torrant, who was in the party that went after Bailey in the attic, says he was shot some time and while trying to arrest Edward Smith of Sheffield.

CARRANZA'S OVERTHROW PREDICTED BY MEXICAN

New York, April 4.—Arnulfo Cruz, a merchant of Mexico City, predicted on his arrival here yesterday, the overthrow of the Carranza government, but in Southern revolution, he said, that if the United States gave its moral support to the plan of General Felix Diaz, Mexico would declare in favor of the cause of the allied and bring the countries forever apostle to Mexico.

SCOTNEY SHOWS BETTER VOICE IN CONCERT

The sixth season of the Tremont Temple Concert Course ended last night with a brilliant entertainment supplied by Evelyn Scotney, soprano; Giovanni Zerga, tenor; Howard White, bass baritone, and Jean Dalrymple, flute. The accompanist was Herbert Peiser.

Miss Scotney was in better voice than at any time this season. The wonderful flute-like character of her high notes was demonstrated in the aria from "The Pearl of Brazil," in which Mr. Gilbert played the obbligato skilfully.

A group of modern songs in English, a group of old Scottish and Irish folk tunes, and numerous encores of Cadman, Lehmann, Rogers, Griffes as a singer of songs and ballads with Mr. Zerga also sang the duet from "Carmen," and with Messrs. Zerga and White, the trio from "Faust."

Mr. Zerga proved to possess a dramatic tenor of unusual power and range. He sang a group of songs from Pagliacci and a group of songs in English, as well as the concerted numbers mentioned above.

Howard White has always something suited to offer. Last night it was a new song of his own composition set to a poem by an Australian lady, called to offer, "The Spirit of Scotland Speaks." He also varied his program by reading very dramatically two poems by Rogers Service from Rhymes of a Red Cross Man. Mr. Webb was in good voice and sang groups of songs with taste and discretion.

REPRODUCE LIBERTY BELL FOR LOAN DRIVE

New York, April 4.—A reproduction of the Liberty Bell is being erected in City Hall Park by the Mayor's committee of women on national defense, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman, for use during the third Liberty Loan drive. Beginning Saturday noon meetings will be held daily in front of the bell. Mayor Hylan and other prominent men will speak, and there will be music to attract crowds of band buyers.

Still Hope to Save Mooney from Death on the Gallows

By International News Service

San Francisco, April 4.—Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the Preparedness parade bomb explosion here in 1916, will be resentenced April 13 to pay the penalty with his life.

Superior Judge Franklin Griffin, in fixing the date, declared that he was left to pass sentence in view of the developments. It is believed Governor Stephens will act in behalf of Mooney after the re-sentencing.

Mooney appealed to the Governor for pardon, setting forth he was convicted on perjured testimony.

PROFANITY IN SENATE OVER WILSON'S NAME

By International News Service

Washington, April 4.—Profanity and Scripture were mixed in the debate on the Overman bill when it was resumed in the Senate.

A statement by Senator Overman to the effect that the President has been unjustly criticised for not taking members of the Senate into his confidence was responsible for the profane outburst. Senator Overman said:

"It is wrong to criticize the President for such a thing. He does confide in Congress—"

And then it came, in a low but audible tone from a Senator sitting a few rows behind Senator Overman. The identity of the Senator who said it was not clearly established, but everybody heard it. A dozen Senators rose hastily and exclaimed:

"Mr. President!"

But Senator Overman held the floor, and whirling quickly in the direction of the offending voice, he shouted:

"Oh, h—! Yes. The Senator who uses that expression—I hope it will go in the records—"

"Mr. President! Mr. President!" again interrupted a number of Senators.

"Senators have asserted that the President does not confide in them," continued Senator Overman. "I suspect that the Senator who used that term has done so, and has criticised the President. But now the President comes here and says to you, and to the authority I am using it for, to limit it, if you please to the war power, but give it to me, and some senators will not give him that which we asks."

A short time before this exchange of words, Senator Overman had read a number of verses from the Bible by way of pointing out the course which Senators should follow in acting upon the bill.

Asked by Senator Lodge whether the President would not have authority to abolish the Interstate Commerce Commission if the bill were passed, Senator Overman declared he had faith in the President not to do such things.

Original Hyphenless American Proves Brave, Resourceful Warrior

By RAYMOND S. RICHMOND.

San Francisco, April —What about the original hyphenless American—the Indian?

Is he patriotic?

Does he appreciate what a paternal and broad minded government is endeavoring to do for him?

Will he fight?

The answer to each of these questions is "yes," according to Indian Commissioner Cato Sells. He probably knows more about the condition of mind and the customs of the original inhabitants of North America than any man alive.

The American Indian has gladly answered the call to arms. There is no army camp in the country without its quota of Indians. Conscripted Indian braves did not wait to be drafted. They volunteered when the call to arms came.

They have gone into the army from nearly every State in the Union. Some of the Indian educational institutions on the Pacific Coast have lost nearly half of their students to the army.

They're not as large an army now, these Indians. Civilization has subjugated and decimated these original Americans are now living, thinking and acting in the white man's way.

California has furnished a large quota of Indian recruits. The army has gained many men from the Sherman School in Southern California, from the Hoopa Indian Reservation in Humboldt County and from other Indian reservations. The Carson Indian School at Stewart, Nev., had 104 students when the war started. Fifteen of these students have enlisted. As fast as the young braves reach the age of army consent they are enrolling here.

Suggestion has been made that separate units of Indian soldiers be organized for the United States army.

Such a scheme has been frowned on by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, who has outlined his attitude as follows:

SOCIETY WOMEN HELP IN SALE OF SAVINGS STAMPS

New York, April 4—Prominent women yesterday aided in the sale of war savings stamps at the public library under the auspices of the Mayor's committee of Women on National Defense. Mrs. Georgeo Tyrrell, Miss Julia Arthur, Jane Gray and Miss Virginia Hylan, daughter of the Mayor, disposed of thousands of dollars worth of stamps to those who wanted to get a glimpse of the famous Bryant machine gun now on exhibition there. The first time since it was accepted by the government. Mrs. Tyrrell started the sale by purchasing from Miss Arthur $100 worth of stamps to see the gun. Miss Arthur added that the proceeds would go to the

No Relief for the Elevated Unless Honest, Reasonable Relief Can Be Obtained

After more than 70,000 citizens of the metropolitan district have declared over their signature in favor of a public control bill for the Elevated Railway Company—the AMERICAN has ceased to ask for further signatures because it wants to be sure that the Public Control Bill, which is being planned in the Legislature, turns out to be what it ought to be.

Names do not do duty for things. There is no virtue in the words Public Control if they do not MEAN Public Control. A bill which gives the stockholders of the Elevated, or any future speculative crowd, all the benefits, and the public all the disadvantages, of a temporary control of the Boston Elevated Railway is not at all what the people of this community or any other community want.

One thing is certain that in this day of grace no bill which contains any jokers quite so apparent as that which would require the public to pay the cost of putting the decrepit Elevated system on its feet, and then just when it is "fed up" enough to give good service and earn ON A LOW FARE a good dividend, would turn it back to the Elevated stockholders—we repeat that no such joker as this can pass this Legislature. Such a bill may be reported out of the committee. It might pass the Senate, but it is unbelievable that it will pass both the House and the Governor. The Massachusetts House of Representatives is not always a controllable body. In the last few years it has shown many signs of independence. No one ever accused Governor McCall of being controllable.

There are some over-smart gentlemen in the street railway enterprises who ought to remember the fate of the Boston Elevated Relief Bill last year. If this proposed relief bill is not sound in all its principles, no camouflaging alias like the title "A Public Control Bill" will aid it.

It seems so obvious that a legitimate, honest Public Control Bill, guaranteeing a reasonable dividend on the stock of the Elevated, is in the interest of those who have put their money in the Boston Elevated AS AN INVESTMENT, that the necessity of insisting upon square dealing with the public by the representatives of the stockholders ought to be apparent to these stockholders. Any sensible stockholder ought to appreciate the harm which may be done to their interests by gentlemen trying to "over trade" with the public.

Good for Chairman Hurley

Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board and General Manager Piez of the Emergency Fleet Corporation have telegraphed to the managements of all the shipbuilding yards in the United States saying:

The keynote of the present situation is management—leadership. Money, material and men have been supplied without stint by the nation. The American people want ships, not excuses.

Chairman Hurley's telegram to the yard managers follows:

We are keenly disappointed in the amount of tonnage delivered by American shipyards during month of March and the slow progress made in many yards. Only twenty-one steel vessels, aggregating 166,700 tons, were delivered during that month, and our minimum estimate was for 197,075 tons. Instead of this reduction from our estimate we should have had an increase.

This was made on promises of shipbuilders. Thirty steel ships were launched, with a total tonnage of 219,586. Eleven wooden ships were launched, amounting to 40,000 tons.

This communication to the managers is very clear and puts the trouble up to their leadership. The public has been over-fed lately with whines from these managers that the slow production of ships is due to the indifference of the workingmen. The AMERICAN has had a strong suspicion of late that there were two sides to that question. Of course, it is very fashionable in certain quarters to make labor the goat for every failure.

The government ought to inspect these yards very carefully and insist upon the removal of any managers who are inefficient. The kind of contract the government felt obliged to make with the shipbuilders does not necessarily induce the highest order of efficiency and speed. Therefore, the government must make up for this want of automatic regulation of efficiency in the form of the contract by rigid observation of the quality of the management.

THE BOSS IS JUST ANOTHER FELLOW

Don't be servile in the sort of service which you give to your employer.

Don't cringe when in the presence of the man who employs you.

There is a great difference between being respectful and desirous of carrying out the wishes of the man for whom you work and that of being obsequious.

If you are honest in your efforts for him you are giving him something which is valuable to him; your services are a commodity upon which he makes a profit; if not, he would be a poor business man to retain you.

What you help to manufacture he sells to another, and he in turn is working for this other man.

He does not act like a servant when he is in the presence of those men.

Why should you have that feeling when you stand before him?

Employers have no respect for the men who fear them, and such men are never picked for advancement.

Men with ideas, not afraid to advance them, who can talk on a man-to-man basis—that is what the employer is looking for nowadays.

ELIZABETH JORDAN'S ARTICLE

There's a Time in a Mother's Life When "Folks" Is Just Her Own Boy and If You Need Any Proof, Run in at a Cafe Near an Atlantic Port and See the Evidence

By Elizabeth Jordan

It was in the dining room of a popular New York hotel. The hour was seven in the evening, and the scene was brilliant.

An excellent orchestra played popular music. Pretty women in becoming evening gowns made themselves charming to their hosts at dinner. Here and there, at various tables, officers in uniform sat singly or in groups.

There entered three visitors from another world. They were a father, a mother and a soldier son —a youngster of twenty, in a neat but service-worn uniform of a second lieutenant.

The relationship of the three was obvious at the first glance. The boy soldier's face was absurdly like his mother's. His round blue eyes had, like hers, the interested, unwinking stare of a baby's as they looked around.

It was clear that the three were entering the dining room for the first time. Clear that they had just arrived at the hotel. Clear that the boy, in one of the camps near New York, had a twenty-fourhour furlough and that his father and mother had come on from some place in the Middle West to spend it with him.

A Big Party

It was also clear that he was their guest and that there was to be a celebration—a great big celebration in the life of a family not addicted to such frivolities.

The mother was a rather prim, sweet-faced, "smalltown" woman, the type that makes a fine neighbor and a loyal friend. Though she could not have been much more than forty she had taken on the comfortable and "settled" look of the late fifties. Also, she had abjured "fussing" over herself. Her gray hair was combed straight back from her brow. Her only ornament was a "breastpin" containing a picture of a small boy—probably of the soldier son.

The father was middle-aged, and fairly prosperous looking. His clothes were well-worn business clothes. His tie was ready-made. His manner was by turns pompous and deprecating. He intended to do the right thing, but he wasn't quite sure what the right thing was.

The three sat down at the table to which the waiter had led them, and the boy's round blue eyes fastened themselves unwinkingly upon the menu.

"Fred," the father said, "this is a special occasion. We don't know when we'll be together again—that is," he corrected himself, "we don't know how soon you'll have another furlough. So it's up to you to tuck in a square meal with all your favorite 'fixings.' Eat everything on that card if you want to. Understand?"

The boy nodded. His mother added a word.

"I don't want Freddie to go back to camp and think of anything he might have had and didn't have," she contributed.

The boy went to it. He ordered crab meat, cream of tomato soup, chicken a la king, baked sweet potatoes, new peas, and creamed spinach.

"I'll decide about the dessert later," he told his mother.

When the meal had been ordered, the tension of the occasion relaxed. The boy grinned at his father, a shy but affectionate grin, and exchanged a few words with his mother. But there was no small talk among the three.

The boy's blue eyes roved around the room. He "took in" the lights, the flowers, the pretty girls. The father, too, was taking notes. The mother's attention remained centred upon the boy. With quick glances, when he was not looking, she took him in, noting the changes since she had seen him last, watching every detail of his expression, his manner, and his clothes.

There was something pathetic in these furtive glances. She knew she must not stare at him. She must not feast her eyes as she longed to do; she must not make him self-conscious or nervous. She stole her glances, like a shy girl.

When the dinner came she ate little. She was still secretly watching the boy, glorying in his young appetite. The father did full justice to his beefsteak and potatoes. Occasionally, he, too, glanced at the boy.

"What else?" he asked, when the main course had vanished.

The boy laughed.

"Well," he said, rather self-consciously, "I'd like what I used to have at home—deep-dish apple pie with vanilla ice cream on the top of it. But it won't be as good as mother's," he added.

The father ordered the apple pie and the ice cream. It came and the boy prepared a mess that absorbed the attention of his fellow-diners. His mother had now ceased to eat, and was watching him absorbedly. With the first bite he nodded to her.

"Bully," he said, "but not as good as yours. It couldn't be!"

The mother tried to smile. Instead, a spasm of emotion twisted her face. For an instant she was on the verge of a complete breakdown, but neither of the men saw it. The boy was lost in his dessert; the father was gazing around the room.

Mother's Pride

The mother seized a glass of water and gulped it hurriedly. Then, with trembling hands, she put her napkin to her lips and stared at her boy. In that moment she saw again the little, growing, freckled chap who, throughout the years, had begged for and enjoyed his favorite dessert.

Confusedly she passed her hand across her brow. Yes, he was there. Tonight, at least, she had him with her, as surely as in the old days at home. But tomorrow——

The boy looked at her over the cigar his father had just handed him. There had been a good deal of ceremony over the cigar. It was evidently the first time father and son had smoked together.

"Too warm?" he asked his mother.

She smiled. "No, indeed," she said. "I love to sit here and look at all the people."

He leaned back to smoke in comfort. Her eyes remained on his face. She was safe in looking, now. He wouldn't notice. He was watching the crowd. But to that mother, "all the people" meant just one soldier boy.

"They're Off!"

By Paul Harris Drake

A tear, a sigh, and a fond "good-by"
And the tramp of marching men—
A column straight and a steady gait
Along the street. And then:
With heads erect and their baggage checked,
They're off on a "tour of duty"
To bring redress to a land oppressed—
Less thought of self or booty.
They're a likely lot and the best we've got—
They're our sons and dads and brothers—
And their only aim is to win the game
For our sweethearts, wives and mothers!
They sing a song as they march along—
A smashing song with a ring—
And it grips us fair as we catch the air:
A Victory Song they sing!
The colors gay, as they march away,
Caress and bless and love them;
With swelling pride we mark their stride—
They are off for FRANCE! No circumstance
Can alter their firm intention,
To free the race from its black disgrace
And banish a world's dissension!
As we bid them "GO" full well we know
That their's is a task gigantic;
So we'll pledge our ALL 'till the Heavens fall,
As they cross the broad Atlantic!

SHOT THAT HIT MARK AT THE CAPITOL

By Mrs. F. P. Bagley

Chairman of the Americanization Committee of the National American Woman Suffrage Association

THE scene was the Capitol at Washington.

Thirteen of the sixteen Massachusetts representatives in Congress were seated at one end of a large committee-room, at the hearing where more than fifty Massachusetts women were telling why they thought the representatives should vote in favor of the Federal Amendment.

Petitions bearing thousands of names of men and women of all classes in Massachusetts had been presented.

The favorable change in sentiment which had come to Massachusetts since the Suffrage Campaign was demonstrated by one woman who had statistics at her fingers' ends.

Telling Sarcasm.

One woman had told, with gentle but telling sarcasm, of the ridicule which was being poured on Massachusetts on account of its antiquated views at a time when suffrage was sweeping the country and when the great State of New York had voted favorably on this subject, adding a million and a quarter to its voting population by enfranchising its women.

The injustice to women in industry had been brought up by another woman, who told of the thousands of women upon whose toil the industries of Massachusetts depend, who equally with men are forced to work in order to live, but who unlike their brother workers have no part in making the laws governing hours and working conditions which they must none the less obey.

Every possible angle of the question had been brought forward.

The senators and representatives chatted with each other, occasionally asking a question, or seemed wholly indifferent to the subject the women were bringing forward so earnestly.

Finally a little woman wearing a fur coat stood up at the back of the room, and said:

"My husband and my only son have left me to sail for France, where they are both fighting in the American army. I am glad that they have gone. I believe that the sacrifice that a wife and a mother must make at this time is no more than every patriotic American woman is willing to make. My home is broken up. The care of our family property has fallen upon me. I am willing and glad to bear all these responsibilities, but I ask you, gentlemen, in justice to the husband and the son who have left wife and mother on this side, perhaps never again to see her, that the interests relating to her and to them shall not be left to one outside the family. I ask that the vote which would be given to my husband shall be given to me."

A Little Thrill.

The senior senator stopped talking in a subdued tone and glanced up. The anti-suffragists looked about them uneasily. A little thrill went through the room. Everybody knew that the wife and mother had hit the mark—that there is no injustice greater than that the woman who has made the supreme sacrifice, the greatest that any woman can make, far greater than going to the front and fighting—that of parting with the two dearest beings on earth—that nothing less than the right to represent herself in the government which has made these demands upon her, is possible at the present time.

The shot had hit the mark.

EDITOR BOSTON AMERICAN:

Reference to your editorial in the AMERICAN, permit me, a father of four sons already in active service, two of them in the war zone now, and the fifth and only remaining son in his sixteenth year anxiously and impatiently abiding his time, until he may enter the navy, to say God bless you for the suggestion of using California as a convalescent domain for our boys who may meet with injury or disability, and it is my earnest prayer that the Hearst papers, with all others supporting this great cause, may push the suggestion to a successful conclusion.

FANTASTIC PICTURES OF STORY PEOPLE

By Winifred Black

"WHEN the ice melts," the man in the lumber camp wrote the other day, "we'll begin to get out the timber."

"When the ice melts," said the captain of the lake steamer, "we'll get that freight started up to the peninsula."

"When the ice melts," they're saying in New England and in Ohio in the maple sugar camps, "the sap will begin to run."

How many things are going to happen "when the ice melts!"

Do you remember the beautiful old fairy story in the fat, red book that you and your brother used to read by the fire on snowy Saturdays, when there was a touch of sore throat about, or somebody in the next house had the mumps and you weren't allowed to go out?

Not the one about the little goose-girl, with the blue eyes as big as saucers and the yellow hair that shone like gold in the sun.

Not the one about the beautiful princess who was turned into an ugly gray cat by a wicked fairy.

Nor even the one about the three beautiful mermaids who lived at the bottom of the sea and came up in the moonlight and swam about and sang to the sailors as they sailed by in the tall ships.

"The Snow Queen."

These were all beautiful and mysterious and very fine to read, but there was one I liked better than them all. I wonder if you did, too.

At first it was not so interesting, but when you had read it once you had to go back and read it again and again, and there was always something new in it every time you read it.

The first time was when you had been naughty and eaten some of the rich cakes that were put away for company, and they made you ill, and you had to stay home from the sleighing party, and Aunt Lucy stayed at home with you, and she put on her spectacles and smoothed down her soft gray dress, in a way she had, and read aloud to you.

The next time was when little brother had the measles and you read aloud to him. He didn't care much about "The Best Story" at first, and wanted you to hurry through and get something with fighting in it, or things to eat, or horses, or bears, or Indians. But afterward he asked you to read it to him again. Don't you remember? And for a long time after that, when you did something he liked he called you Gerda, and he always knew what you meant when you called him Kay.

Yes, that was the story, wasn't it? The one about the Snow Queen and the little boy she carried away with her to the palace of ice, where she sat on the frozen throne and made the little boy try to put together puzzles made of frozen ice.

How cold it was in the palace of the Snow Queen, and how the wind blew there! But Kay did not shiver, and he was never homesick for his warm, pleasant seat by the fire at home in the nook of his grandmother's chimney.

He did not even remember the roses that grew over the little porch in the Summertime, and as for his little playmate, Gerda, whom he had once loved so dearly, he forgot her entirely.

Was She Ambitious?

But she did not forget him, and she rode after him on a tall, black horse, and afterward on the back of a reindeer, and she found him and made him cry, and when he cried the tears melted a tiny bit of ice that had frozen in each of his eyes, and his heart grew warm, and he remembered. And they ran away together from the cold palace of the Snow Queen and went home, and were happy by the old fireplace in the old inglenook again.

What a cold world this would be without tears! How we would forget all that we once loved and all who once loved us!

The Snow Queen—I have often wondered what he meant by the Snow Queen. Strange, old, wonderful Hans Anderson—was she Ambition, do you think? Love of Place and of Power, or Greed for Money?
